FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. – U.S. Sen. Bernie Sanders on Tuesday issued the following statement:

"It is imperative that the Democratic leadership, both nationally and in the states, understand that the political world is changing and that millions of Americans are outraged at establishment politics and establishment economics. The people of this country want a government which represents all of us, not just the 1 percent, super PACs and wealthy campaign contributors.

"The Democratic Party has a choice. It can open its doors and welcome into the party people who are prepared to fight for real economic and social change – people who are willing to take on Wall Street, corporate greed and a fossil fuel industry which is destroying this planet. Or the party can choose to maintain its status quo, remain dependent on big-money campaign contributions and be a party with limited participation and limited energy.

"Within the last few days there have been a number of criticisms made against my campaign organization. Party leaders in Nevada, for example, claim that the Sanders campaign has a 'penchant for violence.' That is nonsense. Our campaign has held giant rallies all across this country, including in high crime areas, and there have been zero reports of violence. Our campaign of course believes in non-violent change and it goes without saying that I condemn any and all forms of violence, including the personal harassment of individuals. But, when we speak of violence, I should add here that months ago, during the Nevada campaign, shots were fired into my campaign office in Nevada and an apartment housing my campaign staff was broken into and ransacked.

"If the Democratic Party is to be successful in November, it is imperative that all state parties treat our campaign supporters with fairness and the respect that they have earned. I am happy to say that has been the case at state conventions in Maine, Alaska, Colorado and Hawaii where good discussions were held and democratic decisions were reached. Unfortunately, that was not the case at the Nevada convention. At that convention the Democratic leadership used its power to prevent a fair and transparent process from taking place. Among other things:

- The chair of the convention announced that the convention rules passed on voice vote, when the vote was a clear no-vote. At the very least, the Chair should have allowed for a headcount.
- The chair allowed its Credentials Committee to en mass rule that 64 delegates were ineligible without offering an opportunity for 58 of them to be heard. That decision enabled the Clinton campaign to end up with a 30-vote majority.
- The chair refused to acknowledge any motions made from the floor or allow votes on them.
- The chair refused to accept any petitions for amendments to the rules that were properly submitted.

These are on top of failures at the precinct and county conventions including trying to depose and then threaten with arrest the Clark County convention credentials chair because she was operating too fairly.

Death notice

VALENTINO TZIGIWHAENO RIVERA

Valentino Tzigiwhaeno Rivera, 8, took his place with God early on May 13, 2016, surrounded by loved ones in the comfort of his own home. Valentino sustained critical injuries from a car accident and courageously fought for his life for a little over a year. He will always be remembered for his lively spirit and the way he captured other's hearts through his love for life and people. Valentino gave us eight beautiful years filled with love, nerf guns, classic rock and dance.

It is Valentino's wish that he be remembered for the person he was before the accident and not the injury he fought so hard to overcome. So we celebrate a boy who found passion at an early age, the passion of music and dance. Moving from hip-hop to freestyle, Valentino transcended many styles of dance since before the time he could walk. It was his gift and the gift that Valentino shared with his family and friends every single day. Valentino's exceptional talents as a hoop dancer carried him around the world to perform. From Paris to Geneva to Florence and Honolulu, Valentino touched the lives of so many people who saw a boy with an incredibly bright future.

Above all else, Valentino loved his family and community. Kindness came easily to Valentino because of his courage and understanding of the most important aspects of life. Valentino possessed an emotional and spiritual maturity far beyond his years, which allowed him to fearlessly embrace all those who entered his life. His natural gift to nurture and uplift others, especially those in need, led him to become a son and a brother in so many communities. Valentino was always happiest when he was representing his family and his tribe, and fighting bad guys with his little sister Paloma.

He is survived by his father and mother, former Pojoaque Pueblo Gov. George Rivera and Felicia Rosacker Rivera; brother PaaWee, sisters PoQueen and Paloma; grandparents Charles "Buddy" and Rita Rosacker, Dora Martinez; many uncles, aunts and cousins.

Valentino Tzigiwhaeno Rivera

A viewing is planned for 3 p.m., Monday, May 16, at the Rivera residence at Pojoaque Pueblo, followed by an evening wake. The funeral Mass will be 10 a.m., Tuesday, May 17, at the Cathedral Basilica of St. Francis of Assisi in Santa Fe, followed by a burial at the Pojoaque Pueblo cemetery.

The family requests that instead of flowers, donations be made to the Ambercare Foundation, P.O. Box 1610, Belen, N.M., 87002, or at ambercare.com, where a fund in memory of Valentino has been set up to help pediatric patients and their families.

Jones and Hammond have tried to tie each other to the president, who is unpopular in Kentucky.

Hammond said in an advertisement that Jones is a liberal career politician who supported Obama for election twice. The ad also used a quote from Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Clinton about putting coal miners out of business.

"He'll vote for Hillary," Hammond said of Jones in his latest ad. "I won't."

Clinton did talk about putting miners

Dear [Firstname],

On August 4th, our family will celebrate Barack's 55th birthday. For that special event, I recently sent you a letter with the birthday card we are putting together for him this year.

This will be Barack's last birthday as President, so I wanted to make sure you - as a DNC Supporter- got the chance to give him the best birthday present ever – your support!

NAME, you can do that with your most generous gift to the Democratic National Committee — to help elect a Democratic President and Congress who will build on Barack's hard fought victories.

Your support has meant so much to Barack and me. Time after time, you have been there to help him overcome Republican obstruction and advance his progressive vision for America: Implementing the Affordable Care Act, extending healthcare coverage to more than 20 million Americans, revitalizing our economy, dramatically lowering the unemployment rate, enacting strong laws to rein in Wall Street's reckless behavior, advancing civil rights for LGBT citizens... and so much more.

But if the Republicans - and their extremist nominee - win the White House and keep their stranglehold on Congress, all of our hard-won achievements would vanish as the GOP and Trump inflict their far-right-wing agenda on our nation.

Your generous contribution today will be the best possible gift you could give Barack on his last birthday in the White House - and will help to ensure that a Democrat is in the White House at this time next year!

Thank you for all that you've done to support Barack and advance our shared Democratic values.

Sincerely,

Michelle Obama

DEMOCRATS

Presidential Partners
Democratic National Committee

Dear [Firstname],

On August 4th, our family will celebrate Barack's 55th birthday. For that special event, I recently sent you a letter with the birthday card we are putting together for him this year.

This will be Barack's last birthday as President, so I wanted to make sure you - as one of our Presidential Partners - got the chance to give him the best birthday present ever – your support!

NAME, you can do that with your most generous gift to the Democratic National Committee — to help elect a Democratic President and Congress who will build on Barack's hard fought victories.

Your support as a member of our Presidential Partners has meant so much to Barack and me. Time after time, you have been there to help him overcome Republican obstruction and advance his progressive vision for America: Implementing the Affordable Care Act, extending healthcare coverage to more than 20 million Americans, revitalizing our economy, dramatically lowering the unemployment rate, enacting strong laws to rein in Wall Street's reckless behavior, advancing civil rights for LGBT citizens... and so much more.

But if the Republicans - and their extremist nominee - win the White House and keep their stranglehold on Congress, all of our hard-won achievements would vanish as the GOP and Trump inflict their far-right-wing agenda on our nation.

Your generous contribution today will be the best possible gift you could give Barack on his last birthday in the White House - and will help to ensure that a Democrat is in the White House at this time next year!

Thank you for all that you've done as a Presidential Partner to support Barack and advance our shared Democratic values.

Sincerely,

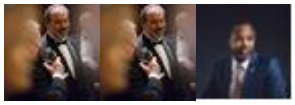

Michelle Obama

How the delegate count is shaping up in New York

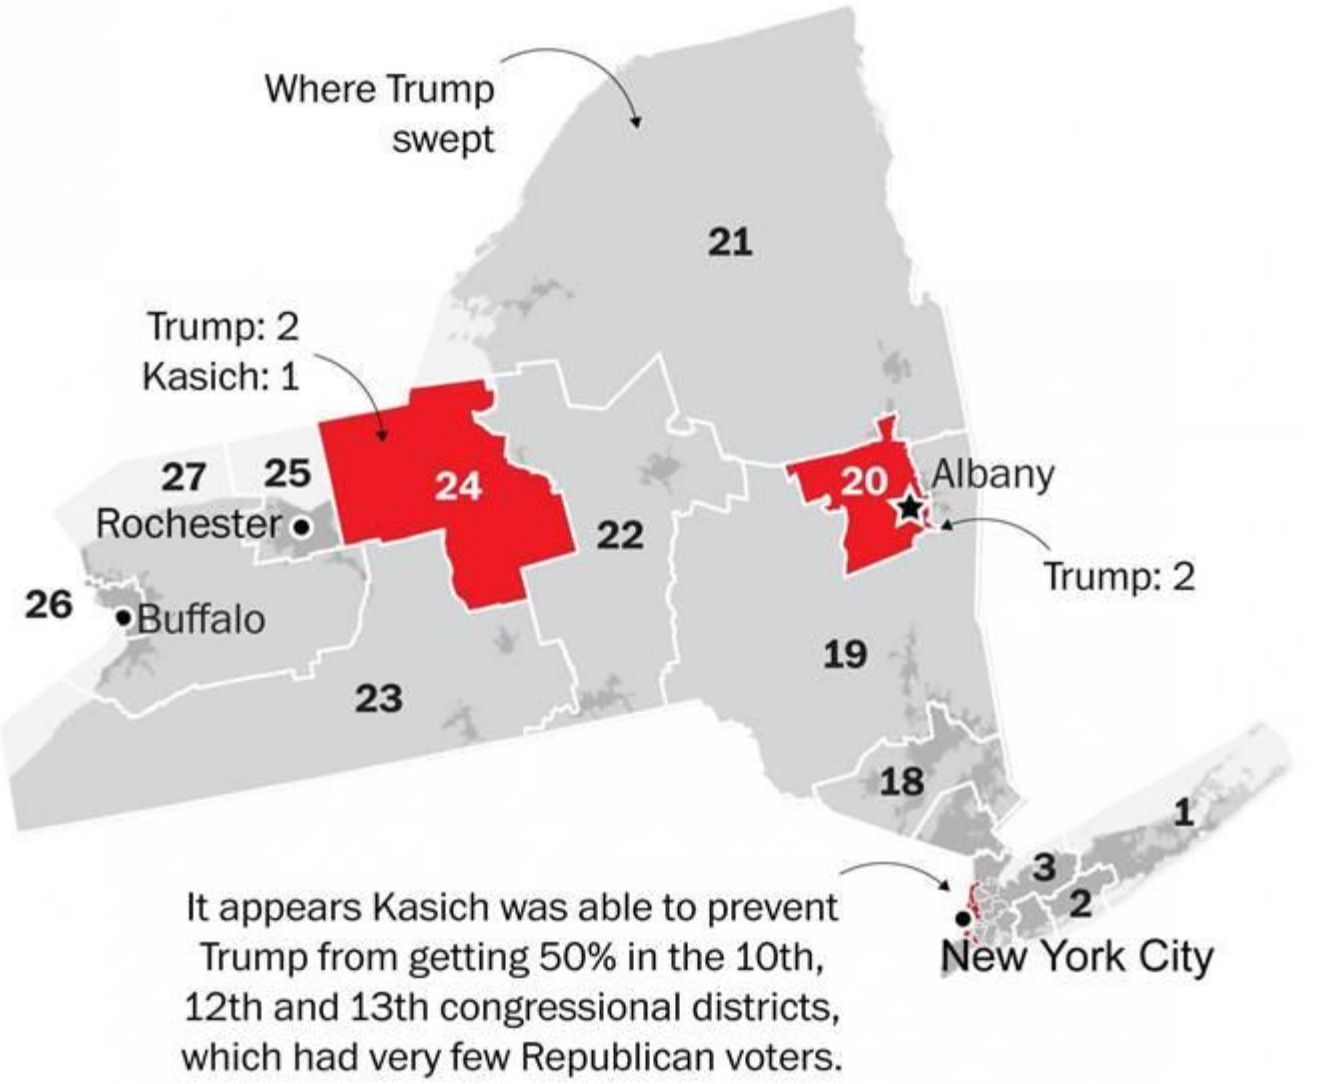

Data as of 8:15 a.m. on Apr. 20.

Trump statewide:		14 delegates
50% congressional districts:	23 of 27	69 delegates
Winning:	3 of 4	6 delegates
Trailing:	1 of 1	1 delegate
		90 delegates

With majority wins, Trump swept almost every district

In New York GOP primary rules, a candidate who wins more than 50 percent of the vote in a congressional district wins all three of that district's delegates. Trump won 22 of New York's 27 districts with a majority, on top of the 14 at-large delegates he earned for winning a majority statewide.

Democratic Voter Registration is Surging!

For Immediate Release
April 11, 2016

Contact: Erik Taylor (714) 634-3367

Orange County, CA-- The California Secretary of State recently reported that in the first three months of this year, over 14,000 voters have registered as Democrats here in Orange County. That's nearly double the amount of Republican registrations in the same period. Additionally, Democrats now have the advantage in four of the top five voting blocs within the county.

"This is great news for the Democratic Party heading into the Primary and General Election," said Henry Vandermeir, Chair of the Democratic Party of Orange County.

For the last decade, the Republican Party of Orange County has lost an average of 1.1 percent each year, narrowing the gap between the two parties to 8.2 percent today.

Vandermeir stated, "We've been working hard to flip Orange County for years, but we really need to give credit for this extra boost we're seeing this year to the Presidential Republican candidates. At this rate, Orange County is on track to turn blue within the next six to eight years - maybe sooner, depending on the GOP Presidential nominee."

THE BUZZFEED POLITICS PODCAST

BALTIMORE ORIOLES

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. – U.S. Sen. Bernie Sanders on Tuesday issued the following statement:

"It is imperative that the Democratic leadership, both nationally and in the states, understand that the political world is changing and that millions of Americans are outraged at establishment politics and establishment economics. The people of this country want a government which represents all of us, not just the 1 percent, super PACs and wealthy campaign contributors.

"The Democratic Party has a choice. It can open its doors and welcome into the party people who are prepared to fight for real economic and social change – people who are willing to take on Wall Street, corporate greed and a fossil fuel industry which is destroying this planet. Or the party can choose to maintain its status quo, remain dependent on big-money campaign contributions and be a party with limited participation and limited energy.

"Within the last few days there have been a number of criticisms made against my campaign organization. Party leaders in Nevada, for example, claim that the Sanders campaign has a 'penchant for violence.' That is nonsense. Our campaign has held giant rallies all across this country, including in high crime areas, and there have been zero reports of violence. Our campaign of course believes in non-violent change and it goes without saying that I condemn any and all forms of violence, including the personal harassment of individuals. But, when we speak of violence, I should add here that months ago, during the Nevada campaign, shots were fired into my campaign office in Nevada and an apartment housing my campaign staff was broken into and ransacked.

"If the Democratic Party is to be successful in November, it is imperative that all state parties treat our campaign supporters with fairness and the respect that they have earned. I am happy to say that has been the case at state conventions in Maine, Alaska, Colorado and Hawaii where good discussions were held and democratic decisions were reached. Unfortunately, that was not the case at the Nevada convention. At that convention the Democratic leadership used its power to prevent a fair and transparent process from taking place. Among other things:

- The chair of the convention announced that the convention rules passed on voice vote, when the vote was a clear no-vote. At the very least, the Chair should have allowed for a headcount.
- The chair allowed its Credentials Committee to en mass rule that 64 delegates were ineligible without offering an opportunity for 58 of them to be heard. That decision enabled the Clinton campaign to end up with a 30-vote majority.
- The chair refused to acknowledge any motions made from the floor or allow votes on them.
- The chair refused to accept any petitions for amendments to the rules that were properly submitted.

These are on top of failures at the precinct and county conventions including trying to depose and then threaten with arrest the Clark County convention credentials chair because she was operating too fairly.

PERRY'S JUDGES: How Perry's Appointees Shaped the Court

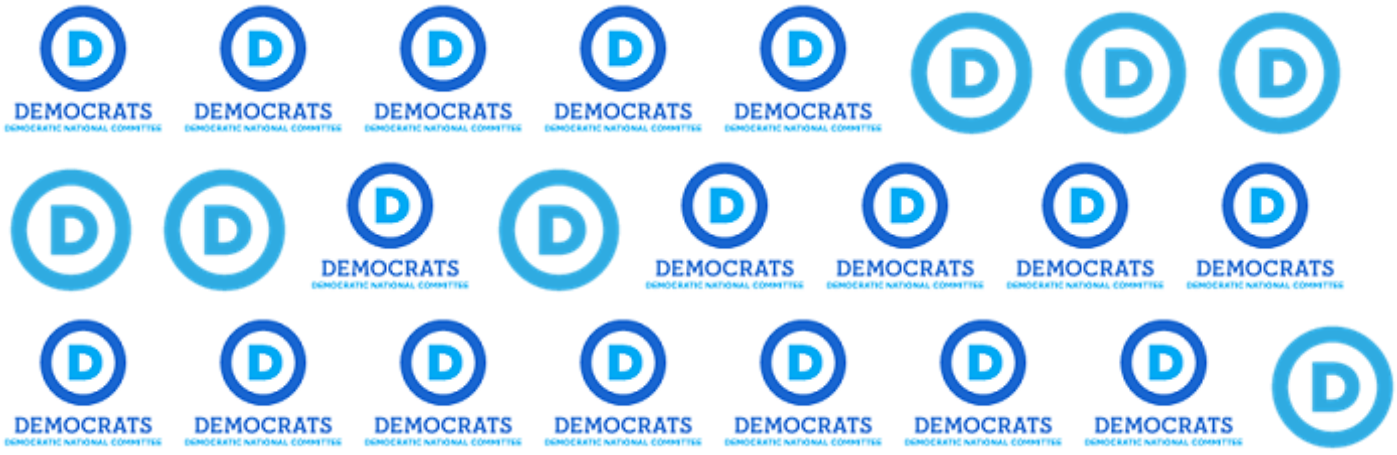

In the late 1990s – when Court Watch began to monitor the Texas Supreme Court – the court, while defense-oriented, maintained a relative impartiality. This sharply contrasts with the court's pro-defendant penchant after 2000 when Rick Perry became governor and began appointing justices. His appointees corporatized the court. When one looks at the voting histories of these men and women, it becomes clear that they have a strong and unmistakable prejudice against consumers.

Since 2005, we have tracked the percentage of cases in which a justice has ruled in favor of the consumer. The average consumer score for Governor Perry's justices follows:

JUSTICE	CONSUMER SCORE (AVERAGE)
Eva Guzman	35%
Wallace Jefferson	34%
David Medina	33%
Phil Johnson	28%
Scott Brister	23%
Don Willett	19%

I congratulate Donald Trump on securing his place as the Republican Party's presumptive nominee. There is no doubt that he successfully tapped into the deep sense of anger and frustration so many Americans around the country rightfully feel today.

The tremendous anger of the current U.S. electorate – whether Republican, Democrat or independent – is a result of people fearful about the future, concerned with the direction of our country and tremendously frustrated by the abject failure and inability of leaders in Washington, D.C. to make anything better.

American voters have made it clear that Washington is broken, but I'm not optimistic that either of the leading candidates for President will put us on a better course.

The American Presidency is an office that goes beyond just politics. It requires of its occupant great fortitude and humility and the temperament and strong character to deal with the unexpected challenges that will inevitably impact our nation in the next four years.

Donald Trump has not demonstrated that temperament or strength of character. He has not displayed a respect for the Constitution. And, he is not a consistent conservative. These are all reasons why I cannot support his candidacy.

Hillary Clinton has proven to be an untrustworthy liberal politician who, if elected, would present a third term of the disastrous foreign and economic policy agenda of Barack Obama.

In November, I will not vote for Donald Trump or Hillary Clinton, but I will support principled conservatives at the state and federal levels, just as I have done my entire life. For Republicans, there is no greater priority than ensuring we keep control of both chambers of Congress. I look forward to working hard for great conservatives in the Senate and House in the coming months.

Pablo Manriquez shared Nancy Pelosi's post.

Yesterday at 11:00 PM ·

I'm 100% with Pelosi here and will add: Latinos for Obama deserve better than this. Way better. This is not what we knocked on millions of doors for in '08 & '12...to see our hispanic refugee women and children targeted and annihilated yet again by the President we campaigned so hard to elect. During both campaigns we were scripted to promise relief. We're all made liars with every hispanic refugee family we tear apart. This is the worst thing we do to people, our neighbors, literally the most vulnerable among us.

Apparently Debbie Wasserman Schultz, chair of the Democratic National Committee, doesn't care if she alienates Bernie followers. The Sanders campaign had been hoping for a significant role at the Democratic convention, but Wasserman Schultz has picked 75 members of the convention's key committees -- rules, credentials and platform – and accepted only 3 of Bernie's choices, failing to acknowledge the proportion of the vote Bernie has won in the primaries and caucuses. Negotiations with the DNC have failed to add any additional Bernie picks to any of the standing committees. Worse yet, she's named as chairs Hillary backers known for their harsh criticism of Bernie (among them Barnie Frank, as co-chair of the influential Rules Committee).

This is insider politics run amok, at the very time and in the very election that insider politics is disdained – and at the very moment it's vitally important to unite the Democratic Party. How Debbie Wasserman Schultz and the DNC be so obtuse?

What do you think?

Q. You don't understand principal to be synonymous with owner?

A. No, I don't.

Q. So as far as principal, the general contractor on the project could be --

A. It could be people having to do with the job, yes.

Q. The drywall hanger would be a principal on the project?

A. No, it depends on the level of involvement. We had a great involvement in terms of the look of this job, so in that sense, I think it's correct. The look and the quality of the job.

It happens with politics. It happens with everything. You vote for people, they turn out to be no good. A lot of things. I'm not the only one. Generally we get it right, we have a great track record. But sometimes you end up -- you go into a transaction, in this case we had a developer we thought he was going to be good, he turned out to be not so hot.

Q. So this quotation in particular isn't an assessment per se, of Bayrock or Felix Sater, is that correct?

A. No, it's just a general statement. You can't always get them right.

Mafia. This was done recently.

This was done in July of 2013. He's talking about the Mafia. I didn't hear this stuff, but we have a signed contract with Bayrock. We don't have a signed contract with Felix Sater. We have a signed contract with Bayrock and we had a contract with SB, which is Roy Stillman

A. Let me ask you about one last quotation attributed to you on this then we'll move on. The next line is, and this is purporting to quote you, "Sometimes we'll sign a deal and the partner isn't as good as we like." Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you think that Felix Sater wasn't as good as you liked him to have been?

MR. GARTEN: Objection, lack of foundation. I don't think he is referring to Felix Sater.

A. I'm just saying in general. You go into a deal, you think a partner is going to be good. Like, you know, we were hoping that Roy Stillman was going to be a good developer and it turned out, we weren't happy with him. You can see that by the letters we sent.

Q. So your position, if I understand it correctly, is that assuming that it had been true that Felix Sater was in the Mafia, you wouldn't have seen that as a valid basis for --

A. No, that's not what I said at all. If I found something -- first of all, Felix Sater had nothing to do -- was not involved in this job very much. It was Roy Stillman.

Roy Stillman was the one that we were dealing with and that everybody was dealing with. He was the developer. Felix Sater wasn't involved. This was done years later. He's asking me about

MR. BECK: No, he's already testified that he doesn't recall the interview, but my question is does he agree with that content of that statement?

A. Yes. We had a signed contract with Bayrock and we had a signed contract with Stillman, or his entity, you know, what am I going to do. Somebody said that he is in the Mafia. What am I going to do.

Maybe you can go through ten years of litigation to figure that out, but you can't just -- you have a signed contract. I don't believe he was in the Mafia, by the way. I don't think the reporter believed that either.

little fun. But, I don't see Felix as being a member of the Mafia

Q. That's your opinion?

A. That's my opinion.

Q. Do you have any evidence or documentation to back that up?

MR. GARTEN: About whether or not he's in the Mafia?

MR. BECK: Yes.

A. I have none.

Q. Well, the article goes on and this is your response to the reporter for that question and this is quoting you. "Again, John, maybe you're thick, but when you have a signed contract, you can't in this country just break it, said Donald Trump." Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you agree with that statement as it's quoted to you?

MR. GARTEN: Jerry, are you asking if it's an accurate quote of what he said then or if he agrees with it today?

Q. Well, the exhibit goes on to reflect that the BBC reporter asked you a follow-up question and apologizes for the way he phrases this, but he said. "You stayed in bed, if I may say so, with Felix Sater, and he was connected with the Mafia." Do you see that?

A. I don't think he was connected to the Mafia. He got into a barroom fight. In fact, he was supposedly very close to the government of the United States as a witness or something, but I don't think he was connected to the Mafia.

He got into trouble because he got into a barroom fight which a lot of people do. I don't because I don't drink, but I don't think he was connected to the Mafia and I don't know him very well, but I don't think he was connected to the Mafia. This was a BBC reporter who tried to sensationalize an interview and, you know, he had a
